6					(1) Not True at All	(2) Not Very True	(3) Sort of True	(4) Very True						Result
7	1	The child usually plays well with other children his age.			x									1
8	2	He may cry when his mother leaves. He will usually settle down if a friendly adult is there to comfort him.					x							2
9	3	When parents pick him up from the place of mentoring, he is usually very happy to see them.			x									1
10	4	Parents respond well to their children's need to read, learn abc's etc.							x					3
11	5	When the child is hungry, the child will be fed, but probably after she's been waiting for a long time.										x		4
12	6	When the child is frightened, she is usually left to deal with it on her own.							x					3
13	7	When the child is excited about something, the parent may turn away to ignore her.										x		4
14	8	The child gets used to not having her needs met, so she learns to take care of herself.							x					3
15	9	When the infant is crying, these parents sometimes respond; sometimes they don't.										x		4
16	10	When a child is hungry, she might be fed, but it is more likely that she will be fed when she will be fed when she's not hungry.										x		4
17	11	When a child is frightened, she is ignored sometimes and overly comforted at other times.						x						2
18	12	Does the parent rarely respond to the child's need to learn to read, understand abc's?								x				3
19	13	If the parent does not respond, the response usually does not fit.						x						2
20	14	Is here any form of neglect or maltreatment?										x		4
21	15	Does one or more of the parents suffer depression?										x		4
